

ADG Committees

Ways to contribute your skills beyond the board

Much of ADG's work is done by committees of volunteers. Unlike board and state representative positions, committees are not filled at the AGM. They are set up by the board at other times of the year, either as ongoing committees or as working committees that form when a particular piece of work comes up.

You don't need to be on the board to join a committee, and committees are a great way to get involved in an area you're passionate about.

Types of committees

Type	How people join	How long it runs
Standing committees	Appointed by the board, based on an application or on relevant expertise	Ongoing, with membership reviewed regularly
Working committees	Members self-nominate when the board calls for volunteers	For as long as the piece of work takes

Standing committees

Tournament Committee

4 MEMBERS • APPOINTED ON APPLICATION • REVIEWED ANNUALLY

Focuses on events across Australia. The Director of Competitions sits on both this committee and the board.

- Sets the annual schedule of events and coordinates the ADG tour.
- Reviews tournaments and assists with running larger events.
- Recommends and implements changes to improve events.

High Performance Committee

4-6 MEMBERS • APPOINTED ON EXPERTISE

Provides advice to the board on the Australian disc golf team. Members are chosen for their expertise and experience with the national team.

- Assists with the selection of the Australian team.
- Supports the administration and performance of the team.

Working committees

From time to time the board sets up a committee to tackle a specific task or project. These committees are open to members who self-nominate, and they wind up once the work is done.

Example: Grants Committee

SELF-NOMINATED • FORMED AS NEEDED

Brings together volunteers to find and apply for grants that support disc golf in Australia.

- Members put their hand up when the board calls for volunteers.
- The committee works on the task and reports back to the board.

Other working committees may be formed as new work arises. Calls for volunteers are shared with members when they open.

What we ask of committee members

- Act in the interests of ADG members and uphold a high standard of behaviour and integrity.
- Attend committee meetings, which are generally held online, and take part in discussions.
- Give around 1 hour a week of volunteer time while the committee is active.
- Disclose any conflict of interest as soon as it arises.
- Keep sensitive matters confidential and follow ADG's Social Media Policy and Conflicts of Interest Policy, which are provided to all new committee members.

Interested in joining a committee?

Keep an eye on ADG member communications for calls for applications and volunteers, or contact the ADG Secretary through the ADG website to let us know which areas you'd like to help with.
